

Principle  $P$  (Experimental)

Given an experiment in which  $n$  observations are made, if a situation, or event,  $E$  occurs  $m$  times out of  $n$  observations, then we say that the experimental probability of the event,  $P(E)$ , is given by

$$P(E) = \frac{m}{n}$$